BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Peter Lugg is a highly qualified and experienced orthopaedic surgeon with a diverse range of expertise. He obtained his FRACS qualification in 1986 and FA Orth A in 1992. Dr. Lugg has focused on several sub-specialties throughout his career, including trauma, knee procedures, and hip procedures.

Currently, Dr. Lugg holds multiple positions. He serves as an Orthopaedic Surgeon at a private practice in the Eastern Suburbs of Melbourne, where he provides specialized care to his patients. Additionally, since 1994, he has been a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon at Eastern Health, contributing his expertise to the medical team.

Dr. Lugg has also made significant contributions to the field of orthopaedics on an international scale. Since 2006, he has been the Joint Director of the Orthopaedic teaching and resource program in Cambodia. Through this role, he has played a crucial part in enhancing orthopaedic education and resources in the region.

Throughout his career, Dr. Lugg has held various leadership positions and clinical roles. From 1997 to 2000, he served as the Chairman of the Orthopaedic Department at Box Hill Hospital. Prior to this, he worked as a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon at Box Hill Hospital from 1989 to 2005. Additionally, he held the position of Head of Unit - Orthopaedics at Eastern Health from 2007 to 2012.

Dr. Lugg's commitment to continuous professional development is evident through his participation in prestigious fellowship programs. In 1987, he served as a Johnson & Johnson International Orthopaedic Fellow at Harvard University. He was also a Zimmer Overseas Travelling Fellow in the same year.

Earlier in his career, Dr. Lugg gained valuable experience as a Senior Registrar at the East Berkshire Health Authority in 1988. He subsequently worked as a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon at Austin Hospital from 1989 to 1990 and at Repatriation Hospital from 1989 to 1992.

Dr. Peter Lugg's extensive qualifications, sub-specialty expertise, leadership roles, and international contributions make him a highly respected and accomplished orthopaedic surgeon. His dedication to improving orthopaedic education and providing exceptional patient care has established him as a prominent figure in the field.
